The Grand Army can well survive the withdrawal of such of its southern members as refuse to stay if colored veterans are permitted to remain in the organization. The G. A. R. is not dependent, fortunately, upon the South for its support or prosperity, and the color line cannot trouble it seriously as long as the North remains true to American principles of equality.—Chloride Belt.

Made Himself Understood.

Some months ago two well known politicians called on Sam Wright, Superintendent of the Mint, and urged a certain woman's appointment. "Gentlemen," he said, "the United States Government is not paying your debts. I can't appoint her." They looked at the Superintendent a few moments and then walked out asking no further explanation. They knew perfectly well what he meant.

A NEAN TRICK.

A Young Man Who Needs Admonishing.

Since the awful hot weather has set in it has become quite a fad in Carson for ladies to go out on the lawn considerably after dark and while standing in a thin nightgown allow their husbands to sprinkle them with the garden hose.

It is said to be one of the loveliest baths imaginable and those who have tried it are extravagant in its praises.

There is one lady in this city—name not mentioned of course—who has a perfect mania for the garden hose shower and insists on it every night. It has become somewhat monotonous to the husband who has begun to regard it as something of a waste of time and water, and he cuts the ceremony as short as possible. Last Sunday night a young man strolled into the yard to make a call somewhat later than he supposed it was, and ran on to the husband hosing down his wife.

"Now I want a good long shower, John," she said, "for you know this is an awful hot night." But John had been hesing long enough and he dropped the hose and slid into the house remarking: "If you want any more you can run it yourself."

"Just a few minutes more, John," pleaded the wife as she stood there under the plum trees posing like the Goddess of Liberty or one of the Graces with her back to the young man. He was equal to the emergency, and picking up the hose nozzle began to drench Mrs. — in great shape.

"Oh, that's just lovely," she cried in ecstasy. "You're so good. Little higher please. That's right."

The young man stood there for about ten minutes, sousing the delighted woman as if she had been a house afire and he had been Foreman of the Warren Engine Company. The young man was perfectly free with the water for the woman whose thin robe de nuit clung to her like folds of classic statuary one sees in Rome.

All she did was to turn round and round covering her face with her hands to keep the water out of her eyes, exclaiming continually what a lovely time she was having.

When she had got sufficiently doused she skipped nimbly back into the house to find her husband fast asleep in bed and snoring like the mischief. She woke him up and asked him if he had been asleep long and found he had.

"Look a here, John, some one has been playing the hose on me for the last ten minutes and I supposed of course it was you. Must have been somebody else."

They both looked out in the yard, but found nothing and are trying hard to figure out the combination that was rung in on them.

The Regular Thing.

A correspondent of the Gazette from Lovelocks, writes as follows: The writer noted that the large stacks of flour in the stores bore the brand of California mills and that the tons of ham and bacon had the brand of St. Louis Chicago or Kansas City packers on the canvas which covered them. Inquiry as to the cause, revealed the fact that owing to transportation regulations on the railroad, flour from California can be laid down cheaper than from Reno or Paradise Valley. It was also ascertained, notwithstanding the fact that hogs will live on alfalfa both summer and winter, and that hogs fed on alfalfa during the summer will make good pork if fed grain six weeks in the fall, that nearly all the bacon and hams used by the farmers are imported. Evidently there is something radically wrong where a farming community, which exports grain and alfalfa to California, imports its flour from that State and its bacon from east of the Missouri. Farmers, you know that is not right, and you ought to endeavor to do better.

The hay crops up the valleys are wonderfully heavy this year. The bidders have all they can attend to.

A Wrecked Circus.

Harper Brothers' circus, billed for two performances at Thompsonville Saturday, came to grief in the evening. The performers struck about 8 o'clock for back wages. It was announced that there would be no performance and that the money would be refunded. The crowd became excited, cut the guy ropes, set the tent on fire, smashed the seats and wagons, cut up the harness, and great pieces were cut out of the tent. In all about $2500 damage was done. H. N. Harper, the manager, attempted to refund the money, but when the crowd became unruly he took the money and came here, where he was arrested later in the night for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Antone, the milkman, died at Lake Tahoe on the 20th, leaving 107 cows to be milked. No sooner had the news reached McKinneys, when the Murphy boys sent two men over to Antone's ranch and had all cows on the place attended to until help could arrive. Although these young men are in the milk business themselves they were generous enough to assist a rival in business.
